SAMSON AND DELILAH

Opera in three Acts

Act I

A public square in the city of Gaza, in Palestine; at the left the portico of the temple of Dagon. As the curtain rises, a throng of Hebrews, men and women, are discovered in attitudes of grief, dejection, and prayer.

Samson is among them.

The musical score consists of two systems of music. The top system features three staves: soprano (treble clef), alto (C-clef), and bass (F-clef). The soprano and alto staves begin with a dynamic of sotto voce. The lyrics "God! Is - rael's God!" are repeated in both French ("Dieu d'Is - ra - èl!") and English. The bass staff continues the bass line. The bottom system also has three staves: soprano, alto, and bass. It begins with a dynamic of f. The lyrics "To our pe-ti-tion" are repeated in both French ("é - cou - - - te la pri -") and English. The bass staff continues the bass line. In the final measure of the bottom system, a dynamic of cresc. is indicated.

Chorus of Israelites

The score consists of two systems of music. The top system, labeled 'E', contains a vocal line with lyrics in English and French, and a basso continuo line with basso and organ parts. The bottom system, labeled 'Chorus of Israelites', contains four staves of music for voices, with lyrics repeated four times. The music features various dynamics like 'div. cresc.' and 'cresc.', and a final dynamic 'f' (fortissimo) at the end of the chorus section.

through. ABIMELECH, falling, cries: help! help! The Philistines in his suite run to his aid; Samson, brandishing his sword, keeps them off. They fill the stage at the right. The greatest confusion reigns among them. Samson and the Israelites exeunt at the right.

The gates of Dagon's temple open; the High Priest, followed by a throng of attendants and guards descends the steps of the portico: he pauses before Abimelech's dead body. The Philistines respectfully draw back before him.

Spring Chorus

SAMSON, DELILAH, CHORUS OF PHILISTINES, THE OLD HEBREW, CHORUS OF HEBREWS

The gates of Dagon's temple swing open. Delilah enters, followed by Philistine women holding garlands of flowers in their hands.

Scene VI

Un poco più lento ($\text{♩} = 76$)

The musical score consists of several staves of music. At the top, there is a staff for a piano or harpsichord, indicated by a treble clef and bass clef, with a key signature of two sharps and a tempo of $\text{♩} = 76$. The first measure shows eighth-note patterns with dynamic markings "sempre pp" and "sempre con Pedale". Below this are staves for "PHILISTINE WOMEN" (indicated by a vertical label on the left), "SOPRANO", and "ALTO". The soprano and alto parts sing in French: "Be they worn as crowns by thy conqu'ring band." and "Voi - ci le prin-temps nous por- tant des fleurs". The piano part continues with eighth-note patterns. The next section starts with the piano playing eighth-note chords over a sustained bass note, followed by the soprano and alto singing the same lyrics again. This pattern repeats for the third section, where the piano provides harmonic support and the voices sing "Now Spring's generous hand, Brings flow'r's to the land; Pour or - ner le front des guer-riers vain - queurs!". The score concludes with a final section where the piano plays a rhythmic pattern of eighth and sixteenth notes, and the voices sing the same lyrics once more.

The young girls, accompanying Delilah, dance, waving garlands of flowers, which they hold in their hands and seem to entice the Hebrew warriors who are with Samson. Samson anxiously tries, but in vain, to avoid Delilah's glances. His eyes, in spite of him, follow all the enchantress's movements, as she takes part in the voluptuous poses and gestures of the young Philistine maidens.

Act II

The stage represents the valley of Soreck, in Palestine. At L., Delilah's dwelling, which has a graceful portico, and is surrounded with Asiatic plants and luxuriant tropical creepers. — At the rising of the curtain, night is coming on, and becomes complete during the course of the action.

Prelude

Moderato assai (69 = ♫)

A page of musical notation for two staves. The top staff uses a treble clef and the bottom staff uses a bass clef. The key signature changes frequently, indicated by a mix of B-flat and sharp symbols. The time signature is mostly common time (indicated by 'C'). The music consists of six systems of notes. The first system starts with a dynamic of $\frac{1}{2}$, followed by a forte dynamic. The second system begins with a piano dynamic. The third system starts with a forte dynamic. The fourth system begins with a piano dynamic, followed by a crescendo instruction. The fifth system starts with a forte dynamic, followed by a dynamic of $\frac{1}{2}$. The sixth system starts with a piano dynamic, followed by a dynamic of $\frac{1}{2}$. Various slurs and grace notes are present throughout the piece. Performance instructions include f, p, cresc., dim., sempre dim., pp, and poco rit.

Delilah (alone)

She is more richly attired than in Act I. At the rising of the curtain, she is seated on a rock near the entrance of her dwelling, and seems to be in a dreamy mood.

The musical score consists of eight staves of music. The top two staves represent the piano, with the right hand in the treble clef and the left hand in the bass clef. The bottom six staves represent the voice, with the soprano part in the treble clef and the bass part in the bass clef. The vocal part begins with a melodic line, followed by a section where the piano provides harmonic support. The vocal line resumes with lyrics in English and French, continuing through several measures. The piano accompaniment features rhythmic patterns and dynamic markings like mf, p, and pp. The vocal part includes sustained notes and slurs. The score concludes with a final section of piano chords.

A musical score for a choral piece. The top three staves are for voices (Soprano, Alto, Tenor) and the bottom staff is for the piano. The vocal parts sing in homophony, repeating the lyrics "hate, and our na - tion! peuple et sa hai - ne!" in three different measures. The piano part provides harmonic support with sustained notes and rhythmic patterns.

Delilah and the High Priest direct their steps toward the sacrificial table on which are placed the sacred bowls. A fire is burning on the flower-trimmed altar. Delilah and the High Priest take the bowls, and pour a libation on the sacred fire which flames up, then disappears, to reappear at the third couplet of the invocation.

Samson stands in the midst of the stage with the child who was leading him. He is overwhelmed with grief, and seems to be absorbed in prayer.
