

*Lucretia,*Set by M^r. Betts

Lucretia the Empire of Rome did destroy, and Helen they say was the ruin of Troy The one was too wanton the other too nice, Excesses shall prove fatal in Virtue and Vice

*To be Ship wrack'd on either, I never design,
But to Sail between both in a Sea of good Wine;
What tho' some dull Matron our mirth disapprove
Tis safer for Ladies to drink then to Love.*

*Here's a health to all those that are better then wise, Whoscom to be licious yet are not precise;
What tho' some dull Matron our mirth disapprove,
Tis safer for Ladies to drink then to Love.*
