THAT a tribute of praise is due to the great Author of nature, every rational being will readily grant. And divine songs seem to have been given us to express those sentiments of devotion and reverence, which become every christian. The royal psalmist, King David, who we imitate (though but faintly, for want of a heart like his, he being a man after God's own heart) was seldom met without a psalm in his mouth, or an instrument in his hand. Hence all must allow music to be the gift of God, as a true representation of the sweet concert and harmony which his infinite wisdom hath made in his first creation, and is given to us as a temporal blessing, for his service and our recreation. Nothing so much elevates the mind and raises the devout affections, calms the swelling passions, calls home the wandering thoughts, and prepares the heart for the worship of God, as singing of psalms : It fills the mind with solemnity and raises us, as it were, above the things of this world. St. Paul says, exhort ye one another in psalms and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your hearts unto the Lord. I will sing with my spirit, and with the understanding also. And St. James says, if any be afflicted, let him pray, if any be merry, let him sing psalms. It is therefore evident that singing is acceptable to God at all times, for the Lord heard Paul and Silas at midnight when they were in prison, and the doors were opened, and their bands were loosed. God also sent his great & heavenly choir of angels, to proclaim the birth of His Son Jesus Christ, with those words,—“Glory be to God on high, peace on earth and good will towards men.” &c —Hence it is an incumbent duty for all mankind to praise the Lord. And when our breath is reascending in songs of praise to him that gave it, let us unite in heart and voice, while here below, and strive to imitate the glorious choir of Saints and Angels, in singing praises and hallelujahs to the great Jehovah ; which will be the glorious employment of all the blessed, throughout the endless ages of eternity. That this may be the happy lot of all, is the sincere wish of

STEPHEN JENKS.

To the TEACHERS of MUSIC and CHORISTERS in the United States.

Gentlemen,

THIS volume is humbly offered for your perusal and patronage---if found worthy of your protection, the compiler's design will be fully answered. Of the original pieces nothing will be said, they must stand or fall without the aid of panegyric from the author : and with respect to the selections here given, it is conceived that their merits are so extensively known and esteemed, as to render encomium unnecessary. It is sufficient, therefore, to observe, that these Tunes are printed verbatim from the original copies of the American composers ; and that the English tunes are taken from the most approved copies.

RULES TO FIND THE MI.

The natural place for Mi is in ————— B
 But If B, be flat, Mi is in E ————— E
 — If B, & E, ————— A ————— A
 — If B, E, & A, ————— D ————— D
 — If B, E, A, & D, ————— G ————— G

N. B. The Mi removed by Sharps is half a tone higher than by Flats. Having found the Mi by the foregoing rule ; above mi, is twice faw, sol, law, ascending ; below mi, is twice law, sol, faw, descending, then comes mi again either way.

OF THE KEYS USED IN MUSIC.

The key note is the predominant tone which governs all the rest, and is the last note in the Bass ; if above mi, it is a sharp or cheerful air or Key ; if below mi, it is a flat or mournful Air or Key.

A Stave		Is the five lines with their spaces whereon Music is written.
A ledger line		Is added when notes ascend or descend beyond the stave.
A Brace		Shows how many parts are sung together.
A Flat		Is a mark of depression and set before a note, sinks it half a tone.
A Sharp		Is a mark of elevation, and set before a note, raises it half a tone.

To understand this scale, observe the first letter G, in the Bass, is made the ground work of all music. The general scale of music is three octaves ; all above are called notes in alt ; and all below, double, and should they be continued to ever so many, yet they are but a repetition of the first seven letters and their sounds.

Note, also, in the Gamut, not only how the parts are connected, but the Cliffs which are a fifth from each other, and show the different parts of Music.

A Natural  Is a mark of restoration; being set before any note made flat or sharp at the beginning of a Tune restores it to its natural sound.

A Star  Shews what number of notes are sung to one syllable. And if two or more are tied at the bottom, it is the same.

A Point  Makes a note half as long again.

A Repeat  Shews that part of the tune is to be sung twice.

Figures  Shews that the notes under figure 1 are sung before repeating and under figure 2 after repeating, if tied together, both after repeating.

Chasing Notes.  Gives the performer liberty to sing which he pleases.

Marks of distinction.  Require the notes over which they are placed, to be sung distinct and emphatical.

A Hold  Shews the note over which it is placed to be held beyond its proper time.

A Direct  Shews the place of the succeeding note.

Notes of syncopation  Are those driven out of their proper order, or through the Bar.

A single Bar.  Divides the time according to the different Moods to which the tune is set.

A double Bar.  Shews the end of a strain.

A Close.  Shews the end of a tune.

OF PRONUNCIATION.

A genteel pronunciation is one of the principal beauties of singing ;—every word should be spoken as clear and distinct as possible ; —it is that which gives vocal music the preference to instrumental, by affording at the same time the sweets of harmony with the sense of what is expressed in those harmonious strains.

OF ACCENT.

The accent is another very important part of music ;—it is a certain stress or emphasis of the voice upon particular notes or parts of the bar. It is inseparably connected with a good pronunciation, and in a great measure distinguishes one mood of time from another. The first part of the bar is the accepted part in all moods of time. In common time, where the bar is divided into four parts, there may be a second accent on the third part.—In compound time, the second accent is on the fourth.—In any of the moods that are subdivided, the accent may with propriety be increased.

OF BEATING TIME.

In beating time, the greatest attention is necessary, that the motion of the hand does not influence the voice by misplacing the accent, which is almost an universal error. For the first and second moods of common time, observe 1st—strike the ends of your fingers ; 2dly, the heel of your hand ; thirdly, raise your hand a little ; and fourthly, raise it still higher, which completes the bar. The triple time moods should be beat as the two first moods of common time, omitting the last beat. The third and fourth moods of common time, and the moods of compound time, have two equal motions of the hand.

OF A SWELL.

A swell is an essential beauty in singing; it should be applied by striking the notes soft and gradually; increasing the sound to the centre, then diminishing in the same proportion. All notes should have their swell gently as the air of the tune requires.

OF SOFT SINGING.

Soft music is always accompanied with graceful motions, just expression, proper accent, and captivating harmony. A particular attention ought to be paid, when singing in choirs, that the Bass be sung grave and majestic, the Tenor steady and engaging, the Counter shrill and melodious, and the Treble soft and delicate. The concluding note should be sounded smooth, swelling the last beat like an echo, and all conclude at the same instant; and any number of notes driven through bars should be sounded soft and smooth, when slurred together, without jerking or jumping so as to prevent graceful singing. Vowels not sounded in speaking, must not be in singing, as e, in the words chosen, people, tremble; at the end of words of more than one syllable y is sounded like the short i, as mighty, my, &c. By some it is improperly sounded, like me, &c. But this belongs to grammarians.—Likewise the words reason, hearken, and token, &c. which have but one accent, are often sung rea-son, hear-ken, to-ken, which is very disagreeable and improper.

To conclude, the most important point in psalmody is a strict decorum, with a heart deeply impressed with the great truths we utter with our voices, aiming at the glory of God, and the edification of one another.

OF SEMITONES.

EVERY Eighth, or Octave, contains Twelve Semitones, the five whole tones being divided into semitones, and the two natural semitones make the twelve.

EXAMPLE.

In this scale of Semitones, the lower line G is made the foundation from which the others are reckoned, and is therefore called a Unison, because one and the same sound is a Unison. The right hand column of figures shews the number of semitones between G at the bottom and each of the other letters, both in their natural situation, and when made flat or sharp. Next above G you will find G sharp, or A flat, which is called a flat second, containing but one semitone; the next is A, which is a sharp second, containing two semitones; the next is B flat, or A sharp, which is a flat third, containing three semitones; the next is B, which is a sharp third containing four semitones, the next is C, which is a fourth containing five semitones, &c. &c. The flat second, third, sixth and seventh, are called lesser seconds, thirds, &c. and the sharp second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh, are called greater seconds, thirds, &c. which is the common distinction, and the greater always contains a semitone more than the lesser.

An OCTAVE contains 12 SEMITONES.

OF CONCORDS AND DISCORDS.

BOTH PERFECT AND IMPERFECT.

THERE are but four Concords in music, viz. Unison, Third, Fifth and Six; (their Eights or Octaves are also meant.) The Unison is called a perfect chord, and commonly the Fifth is so called; but the Fifth may be made imperfect, if the composer pleases.—The Third and Sixth are called imperfect; their chords not being so full nor so sweet as the perfect: But in four parts, the Sixth is often used instead of the Fifth, in certain places, when the Fifth is left out; so in effect, there are but three concords, employed together.

N. B. The meaning of the word Imperfect, signifies, that it wants a semitone of its perfection, to what it does when it is perfect; for as the lesser, or imperfect Third includes but three half tones, the greater, or major Third includes four half tones, &c.

The Discords are a Second, a Fourth and a Seventh, and their Octaves, tho sometimes the greater 4th comes very near to the sound of an imperfect chord; it being the same ratio as the minor Fifth.

EXAMPLE.

Of the several Concords and Discords, with their Octaves under them

O may we—

The day is past and gone, The ev'ning shades appear,

O may we all remem . ber well

O may we all re—

O may we—

member well The night of death draws near.

2 We lay our garments by,
Upon our beds to rest ;
So death will soon disrobe us all
Of what we here possess.

3 Lord keep us safe this night,
Secure from all our fears ;
May angels guard us while we sleep,
Till morning light appears.

4 And when we early rise,
And view th' unweary'd sun,
May we set out to win the prize,
And after glory run.

5 And when our days are past,
And we from time remove ;
O may we in thy bosom rest,
The bosom of thy love.

SWEET PROSPECT.

H. M.

1805

S. JENKS.

The musical score is written on three staves. The top two staves are in treble clef with a key signature of two flats (B-flat and E-flat) and a time signature of 2/4. The bottom staff is in bass clef with the same key signature and time signature. The music consists of a series of eighth and sixteenth notes, with some rests. The first staff ends with a double bar line and a repeat sign. The second staff continues the melody and also ends with a double bar line and a repeat sign. The third staff continues the melody and ends with a double bar line and a repeat sign. The lyrics are written below the staves.

How tedious & tasteless the hours, When Jesus no longer I see; Sweet prospects, sweet birds & sweet flowers Have all lost their sweetness to me.

Why should we mourn departing friends, Or shake at death's alarms, 'Tis but the voice which Jesus sends, To call them to his arms.

Hymn 39th. G. W. S. JENKS. 1804

O come let us join, Together combine, To praise our dear saviour, our master divine; Him let us adore, Who cover'd with gore, Late hanged on Calvary. Both wounded and poor, Late hanged—

2. He worthy is bless'd.

By Spirits at rest,

Who once in this Desert, his Godhead confess'd,
The heavenly Spheres,
Who saw him in tears,
Yea every Arch Angel, his person reveres.

3. The Prophets who told

His Sufferings of old,

Sing new sweet Thanksgivings, on Psalt'ries of Gold.
The Fathers to whom
He shew'd he would come,
Now in his Pavilion take up their long Home.

4. The Spirits of Men,

Whom for him were slain,

From Abel the Righteous, share now in his Reign.

The Apostles who stood,

Resisting to Blood,

For Jesus's Gospel, rejoice in their God.

5. The Confessors too,

Them prostrating low,

Cast down their bright Mitres, and thankfully bow.

O Church of the Lamb,

Here met do the same,

With Saints and with Angels, bless Jesus's Name.

6. My Soul, bear a Part,

For ransom'd thou art,

By Jesus's Blood-shedding, his Burial and Smart.

To him that was slain,

The scorn'd Nazarene,

Be Glory and Honour, let all say, Amen.

Then—

My flesh shall slumber in the ground,

Then—

Till the last trumpet's joyful sound ; Then burst the chains with sweet surprise, Then—

Then—

Then—

And—

And in my Saviour's image rise.

And in my Saviour's image rise,

O ! if my Lord would come and meet, My soul would stretch her wings in haste ; Fly fearless thro' death's iron gates ; Nor feel the terrors as she pass'd. Nor - feel the terrors as she pass'd.

Sweet spirit if thy airy sleep, Nor sees my tears, nor hears my sighs; Oh I will weep, in luxury weep; Till the last heart's drop fill mine eyes.

2. But if thy sainted soul can feel,
And mingle in our misery,
'Then, then my breaking heart I'll seal,
Thou shalt not hear one sigh from me.

3. The beam of morn was on thy stream,
But sullen clouds the day deform;
'Thou wert indeed that morning beam,
And death, alas! that sullen storm.

4. 'Thou wert not formed for living here,
For thou wert kindred with the sky;

Yet, yet we held thee all so dear,
We thought thou wert not form'd to die.

5. How sweetly could I lay my head
Within the cold grave's silent breast;
Where sorrow's tears no more are shed,
No more the ills of life molest.

6. For, ah my heart! how very soon
The glittering dreams of youth are past!
And long before it reach its noon,
The sun of life is overcast.

Save me, O God, the swelling floods Break in up - - on my soul; I sink and sink—

Like—

sorrows

o' - - er my head, like mighty waters roll.

Lord dismiss us with thy blessing, Send it down from heaven above ; May we all go home a-praising ; And rejoicing in thy love :

Farewel brethren, farewel sisters, 'Till we all shall meet above.

2. Pardon Lord now all our follies,
While together we have been ;
Make us humble, make us holy,
Cleanse us all from every sin,
Farewel brethren, farewel sisters,
'Till we all shall meet again.

3. May thy presence, Lord, go with us,
To each one's respective home ;
And the presence of our Jesus,
Rest upon us ev'ry one ;
Farewel brethren, farewel sisters,
'Till we all shall meet at home.

To deck in mourning garbs of woe,
The face of nature where I go,

The lofty hills in mourning stand,
The crystal streams in sorrow glide,
And roll to meet the swelling tide !

While anguish moves in ev'ry gale ;
