HOW TO USE THIS BOOK.

This book has been prepared in response to an urgent call for a work that could be made useful in the Sunday School, as well as in the day school, and in singing classes. It contains also a brief course of instruction in the Tonic Sol-fa notation, and a variety of exercises and secular songs for practice. It can, therefore, be made available in three different ways, as follows:

1. As a text book for teaching the system.

In this case, as the course of instruction is necessarily much condensed, the teacher should be supplied with a copy of the Tonic Sol-fa Music Reader (sent by mail for 35 cents), from which additional exercises may be written on the blackboard as needed.

2. For institutes and short courses of instruction, which are now so often held by teachers in this country. It was especially to meet this demand that the book was first planned, but it is hoped that it will be found equally useful for the other purposes mentioned.

3. For use in Sunday Schools where only rote singing is practised. When employed in such schools, the following plan is strongly recommended in place of the ordinary method of mere imitation, in which children are taught as parrots might be taught, leaving them at the end of any number of years of practice no more musically intelligent than at the beginning:

Hang up a modulator in plain view of the whole school. Let the teacher, or leader (at first only using the easier tunes), sing a short phrase of the tune to the syllables, pointing on the modulator as he sings. Pupils repeat the phrase, the teacher pointing as they sing. Let this be done several times, or until the phrase is somewhat familiar. Teach the next phrase in the same way; then sing the two in connection, and so on, until the whole tune can be sung by the syllables, the teacher still pointing on the modulator. Then turn to the book, and sing the tune to the syllables. If the pupils fail at any point, return to the modulator and practice the difficult passage as before. When the tune is learned, call attention to the words, their meaning, the sentiment, etc., and then sing the tune to the words. When the practice is conducted in this way, it will not be long until the most difficult tunes can be easily taught. Not only that, but after a time, the tones will become so familiar that the modulator can be dispensed with, and the tunes taught at once from the book by syllable.

Observe that the teacher does not sing with the pupils. They listen and look while he sings and points. He points and listens while they sing. One hour's training of this kind is more effective than five hours spent in singing with the teacher.

The advantage of teaching the tunes by the syllables, instead of the ordinary method of teaching the words and tune together, may be easily stated. First—It avoids the hurtful effect of using sacred words for mere practice. They are not introduced till they can be properly explained and impressed. Second—The syllables possess a wonderful emulative mnemonic power. Each tune that is learned is a help to the next one. The ear becomes accustomed to certain progressions in connection with certain syllables, and thus gradually gains a practical knowledge of all relations. This is the case even where no time is spent in positive elementary instruction. It is needless to say that we by no means intend to countenance the neglect of such instruction, when it can possibly be given. It is our hope and belief that many who begin by using the syllables as above described, will be led by the delightful simplicity of this new notation and way of teaching to devote some time to more thorough study. It is the universal experience, where the Tonic Sol-fa system is introduced, that pupils are led by the ease and naturalness of the method to follow the study of music much farther than they are inclined to do when they begin with the staff. This is the invariable result where the Tonic Sol-fa system is introduced. It diffuses musical intelligence among the people; it leads to the appreciation and use of a higher order of music, and gradually substitutes ready sight-reading for the mere imitation, or rote singing, which usually prevails in this country.

INSTRUCTIONS AND EXERCISES.

FIRST STEP.

To recognize and produce the tones DOH, ME, SOH, the upper octave of Doh and the lower octave of Soh; the strong and weak accents; the Pulse, the Half-pulse; two-pulse measure and three-pulse-measure.

NOTE.—The teacher will need for his instruction and direction a copy of The Tonic Sol-fa Music Reader. Not only the facts as in this book, but the method of teaching therein presented, with cuts of the Hand-signs and Finger-signs, and many illustrations and suggestions with regard to points the teacher needs to know. A Modulator, tuning-fork and black-board are the necessary apparatus.*

another is a calm, gentle tone, and another is a clear, bright tone.

NOTE.—The pupils must determine the characters of the tones for themselves, after hearing suitable illustrations from the teacher.

TUNE.

1. The three principal tones in music—the first to be learned—are Doh, Me, Soh.

2. Of these, doh is the lowest, me the next higher and soh the highest.

3. These three tones combined form the chord of DOH, or Tonic Chord.

4. The relative position of the tones is of less importance than their characters or mental effects.

5. Of the mental effects of these three tones, one is a strong, firm tone,

SOH

6. As a means of practice the tones are indicated by Hand-signs representing their mental effects.

7. The strong, firm tone is represented by the closed hand; the clear, bright tone by the open hand thumb upwards; the calm, gentle tone by the open hand palm downward.

ME

8. In the Tonic Sol-Fa Notation the initials of the syllables are used as "notes"—d for doh, s for soh and m for me.

NOTE.—A narrower type and somewhat altered form is given the letter m ( $\text{m}$ ) for convenience in printing. After the tones have been well practiced from the teacher's patterns, from the Modulator, Hand-signs etc., the following exercises may be sung from the book or black-board.

FIRST STEP.

9. The tones next to be learned are the upper octave of doh, and the lower octave of soh.

10. In the notation the upper doh is distinguished by the figure 1 placed at the top of the letter thus—d' and is called One-Doh.

11. Its mental effect is the same as doh, only more positive. Its Hand-sign is the same as for doh with the hand held higher.

12. The lower soh is distinguished by the figure 1 placed at the bottom of the letter thus—s<sub>1</sub>, and is called Soh-One.

13. Its mental effect is the same as soh, only somewhat subdued. Its Hand-sign is the same as for soh with the hand lowered.

NOTE.—After sufficient drill by pattern from the Modulator, Hand-signs etc., the following exercises may be practiced.

TIME AND RHYTHM.

14. Time in music is measured by regularly recurring accents.

15. The most easily perceived degrees of accent are the strong and the weak.

16. The time from one strong accent to the next is called a MEASURE.

17. The time from any accent to the next is called a PULSE.

18. Different arrangements of the order of accents makes different kinds of measure.

19. A measure consisting of two pulses, one strong and one weak, is called Two-pulse measure.

20. A measure consisting of three pulses, one strong and two weak, is called Three-pulse measure.

21. When the measure begins with the strong accent it is called the primary form of the measure.

22. When the measure begins with a weak accent, it is called a Secondary form.

23. The Tonic Sol-fa Method makes use of a system of time-names to aid in the study of time.

24. The pulse is the unit of measurement, and a tone one pulse long is named TAA, pron. Tah.

25. The strong accent may be indicated, when necessary, by the letter K, thus—TRAA.

26. The strong accent is indicated in the notation by a long heavy bar; the weak accent by a colon (:).

27. The note following a long bar is to be sung with the strong accent, and a note following a colon is to be sung with the weak accent.

28. The accent marks are placed at equal distances of space and thus represent the equal divisions of time.

29. The space from one accent mark to the next represents the time of a pulse, and the space between the bars represents the time of a measure.

30. The end of an exercise is indicated by a DOUBLE BAR.

31. The continuation of a tone through more than one pulse is indicated by a dash, and the time-name is obtained by dropping the consonant thus—

d :d	d :—	d :—	— :—
TAA TAA	TAA - AA	TAA - AA -	AA - AA.

32. A pulse divided into halves—half-pulse ones—is named TAATAI, and is indicated in the notation by a dot in the middle of the pulse-space

thus—  $\left| \begin{array}{c} d \cdot d \\ \text{TAA-TAI} \end{array} \right|$

NOTE.—The finger-signs for time may be introduced here; the teacher will find full illustrations in the "Reader." The teacher will consult the "Reader" for suggestions as to Modulator voluntaries, Ear exercises, Mental effects, Writing exercises, Pointing and writing from memory, questions for examination, certificates, etc.

SECOND STEP.

The tones RAY and TE. The medium accent. Four-pulse and six-pulse measures. Silent pulse, pulse-and-a-half tones and quarter-pulse tones.

TUNE.

33. The tones to be learned next are Ray and Te.

NOTE.—Their octaves,  $r^1$  and  $t_1$  and all other tones above and below the unmarked octave can easily be taught from the Modulator.

34. As to the mental effects of these new tones, one is a sharp, piercing one, and the other is a hopeful, rousing tone.

See Note after paragraph 5.

35. The Hand-sign for the sharp, piercing tone is the fore-finger pointing upward and the sign for the hopeful tone is the open hand fingers upward, palm outward.

36. The tones soh, te, ray combined form the chord of soh, or Dominant Chord.

NOTE.—After preparatory practice of the new tones by pattern, from the Modulator, hand-signs etc., the following exercises may be studied.

The teacher will give such instruction in breathing and expression as may be needed from time to time. The words in italics are to be sung softly; those in SMALL CAPITALS are to be sung loudly, and those in the common type are to be sung with a medium degree of power. See "Reader," p. 18.

TIME.

37. In addition to the strong and weak accents there is also a Medium accent.

38. The medium accent changes two two-pulse measures into a four-pulse measure, and two three-pulse measures into a six-pulse measure.

39. In four-pulse measure the order of accents is STRONG, weak, MEDIUM, weak.

40. In six-pulse measure the order of accents is STRONG, weak, weak, MEDIUM, weak, weak.

41. The medium accent is indicated in the notation by a short, thin bar.

THIRD STEP.

The tones Fah and Lah, completing the Scale. The Standard Scale. To pitch tunes. The Half-pulse Silence. Various combinations of Quarter-pulses.

TUNE.

45. The tones next to be learned are Fah and Lah, and their octaves.

46. Of the mental effects of these two tones, Lah is a sad, weeping tone, and Fah a serious, solemn, desolate tone.

47. The Hand-sign for the sad, weeping tone is the hand hanging loosely from the wrist; the sign for the serious, desolate tone is the forefinger pointing downward.

48. The tones Fah, Lah, Doh, combined, form the chord of FAH, or Sub-Dominant.

49. The series of tones from d to d', represented in the Modulator, is called the Scale.

50. Each tone of the scale differs from the others in pitch.

By "pitch" is meant the highness or lowness of tones.

51. The eighth tone above or below any given tone has the same mental effect and the same name. They are Replicates or Octaves one of the other.

52. The first octave above any tone is indicated by the figure 1 placed at the top of the letter, the second octave by the figure 2 and so on, thus—d d' d<sup>2</sup> named doh, one-doh, two-doh, etc. The octaves below are indicated by the figure placed at the bottom of the letter, thus—s s<sub>1</sub>, s<sub>2</sub>, named soh, soh-one, soh-two.

53. The tones doh, me, soh are the strong, bold tones of the scale, and ray, fah, la and te are the leaning tones.

f <sup>1</sup>	54. The tones te and fah have the strongest leaning or leading tendency, te leading upward to doh and fah leading downward to me .
m <sup>1</sup>	55. The most important tone of the scale, the strongest, the governing tone is called the Key-tone.
r <sup>1</sup>	56. A key-tone with the tones related to it, or belonging to it, is called a Key.
DOH<sup>1</sup>	57. A distinction is made between "key" and "scale"—a key is a family of related tones, consisting of a key-tone with six related tones and their replicates. A scale is the tones of a key arranged in successive order ascending or descending. The intervals (steps and half-steps) are indicated by the spaces.
TE	58. Any degree of pitch may be taken as the key-tone.
SOH	60. The particular degree of pitch which is taken as the key-tone of the Standard Scale is named C , Ray is D , Me is E , and so on.	t—B
FAH	61. The correct pitch of this scale, for ordinary vocal purposes, may be obtained from a C<sup>1</sup> tuning fork, or one of its tones may be fixed on the memory.	l—A
ME	62. Any tone of the Standard Scale may be taken as a key-tone.	s—G
RAY	63. A scale or key is named from the name of the pitch taken as the key-tone.	f—F
DOH	64. The different keys are indicated in the notation by the signature "key C ," "key G ," and so on.	m—E
t<sub>1</sub>	NOTE.—The pupils should learn to pitch the key-tone. Take C<sup>1</sup> from the fork and sing down to the tone wanted, this tone the pupil will dwell upon a little and repeat to the syllable doh , and then sing the chord of DOH to confirm the key.	r—D

TIME.

65. The Half-pulse Silence is named SAA on the first half of the pulse and SAI on the second half, and is indicated by the blankspace between the dot and the accent mark.  $\left[ \begin{array}{c} \dot{d} \quad \cdot \quad \dot{d} \\ \text{TAA} \text{SAI} \text{SAA} \text{TAI} \end{array} \right]$

66. A pulse divided into two quarters and a half is named tafaTAL.  $\left[ \begin{array}{c} \dot{d} \quad \dot{d} \quad \dot{d} \\ \text{ta} \text{fa} \text{TAL} \end{array} \right]$

67. A pulse divided into a half and two quar-

68. A pulse divided into a three quarter pulse tone and a quarter is named TAAefe.  $\left[ \begin{array}{c} \dot{d} \quad \cdot \quad \dot{d} \\ \text{TAA} \text{ - } \text{efe} \end{array} \right]$

69. Syncopation is the anticipation of accent. It requires an accent to be struck before its regularly recurring time, changing a weak pulse or weak part of a pulse into a strong one, and the immediately following strong pulse into a weak one.

FOURTH STEP.

The Intervals of the scale. Transition to the First Sharp and First Flat keys. Chromatic tones. Silent quarter-pulse. Thirds of a pulse.

70. The difference of pitch between any two tones is called an Interval.

71. The intervals between the tones of the scale are commonly known as Steps and Half-steps.

72. The Half-steps occur between me and fah and te and doh; all the others are steps.

NOTE.—The above is the commonly accepted doctrine of the scale-intervals and agrees with the tempered-scale as given by the Piano or Organ. The Tonic Sol-fa theory of intervals, which is based upon the doctrine of just intonation, teaches that the steps between d r, f s, and l t are Greater Steps; the steps between r m and s l are Smaller Steps, and those between m f and t d are Little Steps. The difference between a Greater and a Smaller step is called a Komma; a Greater step consisting of nine kommas, a Smaller step of eight kommas and a Little step of five kommas.

73. Intervals are also named Seconds, Thirds, Fourths, Fifths, etc.

74. The interval from any tone to the next in the scale is called a Second; to the third tone a Third, and so on.

75. A Second that is equal to a Step is called a Major Second. A Second that is equal to a half-step is called a Minor Second.

76. A Major Third is equal to two steps; a Minor Third is equal to a step and a half.

77. The tones Te and Fah are separated by a peculiar interval, called the Tri-tone—equal to three full Steps—the only one found in the Scale. Thus f and t become the most characteristic tones of the scale.

78. From their mental effects t may be called the sharp tone of the scale, and f the flat tone.

79. The whole aspect of the scale changes when f is omitted and a new t put in its place, or when t is omitted and a new f is taken instead.

80. During the course of a tune the music may pass into a different key from the one in which it begins.

81. The "passing over" of the music into a different key is called Transition.

82. Transition is produced by omitting certain tones from the old key, and using one or more new tones instead.

83. The commonest form of transition is when soh is taken as the new doh.

84. This transition is made by omitting fah and taking fe in its place.

85. Thus fe becomes the distinguishing tone of the new key. It has the effect of a new te, and all the other tones change their mental effects accordingly.

86. The new key is called the "Soh-key" or (on account of the sharp effect of its distinguishing tone), the First Sharp-key.

87. Another common form of transition is when fah is taken as the new doh.

88. This transition is made by omitting te and taking ta in its place.

89. Thus ta becomes the distinguishing tone of this new key, it has the effect of a new fah, and all the other tones change their mental effects to correspond.

90. This new key is called the "Fah key," or (on account of the flat effect of its distinguishing tone) the First Flat key.

91. These transitions are called transitions of one remove because only one change is made in the pitch-tones used.

92. When soh becomes doh the music is said to go into the first sharp key, or key of the Dominant.

93. When fah becomes doh the music is said to go into the first flat key, or key of the Sub-Dominant.

NOTE.—Eighty per cent of all the transitions in music are to one or the other of these two keys, and that to the Dominant is the one most used. Transitions of two, three and four removes rarely occur in simple music and need not be explained in this work.

94. The tone on which the change is made from one key into another is called a Bridge-tone.

95. Bridge-tones are indicated in the notation by double notes, called Bridge-notes, thus: sd, lr, 'm, (pronounced s' doh, l' ray, t' me), the small note on the left giving the name of the tone in the old key and the large note its name in the new key.

96. This is called the "proper" or "perfect" way of indicating transition.

97. When the transition is very brief, less than two tones long, it is more convenient not to alter the names of the tones.

98. This is called the "improper" or imperfect way of indicating transition.

99. In addition to the bridge-note transition is indicated by the signature of the new key.

100. The distinguishing tone of the new key is indicated in the signature by a small letter (t) on the right for the first sharp key, and (f) on the left for the first flat key, thus—G. t., or f. F.—by this the singer is warned to expect a new te or new fah.

101. The tones fe and ta are frequently introduced in such a way as not to produce transition.

102. When thus used they are called chromatic tones.

103. Chromatic tones may also be introduced between any two tones of the scale which form the interval of a Step.

104. These intermediate tones are named from the scale-tone below by changing the vowel into "e"—as doh, de, ray, re, etc.; or from the scale-tone above by changing the vowel into "a"—as te, lah, la, etc.

NOTE.—The customary pronunciation of the vowel "a" in America is "ay" as in "say," in England it is pronounced "aw."

For further instructions with regard to pitching tunes, see "Reader," p. 79.

105. The silent quarter-pulse is indicated like the other silences by a vacant space among the pulse divisions. It is named sa on the accented and se on the unaccented part of a pulse.

106. Thirds of a pulse are indicated by commas turned to the right and named TAATATITEE.

The teacher will examine the "Reader," page 78, for the best way of practicing these exercises.

FIFTH STEP.

The Modes. The Modern Minor. Expression.

107. Thus far in our studies doh has been the key-tone or point of repose.

108. Any tone of the scale may be made to predominate in a tune so as to have the character of a key-tone and to give something of its own peculiar mental effect to the music.

109. A mode of using the common scale which makes Ray the most prominent tone is called the Ray Mode.

110. A mode which makes Lah predominant is called the Lah Mode.

111. Tunes in the Ray and Lah Modes have a sad, plaintive effect.

112. Tunes in the Doh Mode are more or less bright and joyous.

113. The Doh Mode, on account of its Major Third is called the Major Mode.

114. The Ray and Lah Modes, having Minor Thirds are called Minor Modes.

115. Of the minor modes, the Lah Mode is the one most used at the present day.

116. To give Lah the importance of a key-tone modern harmony requires a leading tone (se) having the same relation to it that te has to doh.

117. Occasionally, also, another tone is introduced a full step below se, called bah (written ba).

118. Modulation is a change of mode, as from major to minor, or minor to major.

NOTE.—The word "modulation" is commonly used to mean change of key; in the Tonic Sol-fa method change of key is called Transition—change of mode, modulation.

119. Transitional modulation is a change of both key and mode, as from the Doh key to the relative minor of the first flat key, or to the relative minor of the first sharp key.

49. KEY C. Ray is D. Ray Mode.
