T O

Her Royal Highness, THE PRINCESS ANN of DENMARK.

Madame,

THE excellent Art of Musick, was thought by many of the Wisest Ancients, to have derived its Original immediately from Heaven; as one of the First, most beneficial Gifts of the Divine Goodness to Mankind: thereby to draw and allure, the old, rude, and untaught World, into Civil Societies; and so to soften and prepare their Minds for the easier reception of all other Accomplishments of Wisdom and Virtue.

The most Learned of the Ancient Heathens, the Greeks, were so much of this Opinion, that they carried their Veneration for this Admirable Faculty too far. They believed they could not do it right, but by assigning to it, for its Protection and Improvement, some peculiar tutelary Gods of its own. Nay, when to all the other Ornaments and Perfections of human Life, they seldom appointed more than one single Deity to preside over each of them, to Musick alone they allotted a greater number of

Guar-

The Dedication.

Guardian Divinities than to any of the rest ; some of the Male, but most of the Female and Fairer Sex.

They were indeed mistaken, when they bestow'd on it these Fabulous Honours ; and they made but ill Gods of those Men and Women, who would have done excellently well, if they had only pass'd for Patrons of it, or Inventors in it, as they really were.

But in all times of the truer Antiquity, even amongst God's own peculiar People, we find this most instructive and delightful Skill did always meet with its due and deserv'd Honours, short of Idolatry, and within the bounds of Sobriety and Decency.

Thus we read in the Holy Scriptures, not long after the History of the Creation, the Name of the Man is Solemnly recorded with Renown, among the Founders of Nations, who was the first Inventor of the Harp and the Organ.

And undoubtedly, there was never any Age of the true Church afterwards, whether Jewish, or Christian, wherein the Sacred delights of Musick were not admitted, to bear an eminent Part in the Worship of the True God.

In the Jewish Church, it is certain, that even before the Temple it self was built, while it was yet only in Design, God Inspir'd David, the Man after his own Heart, to Compose before-hand, the Hymns and Divine Anthems that were to be Sung in it.

And

The Dedication.

And the choice of the Person for that Work, was infinitely for the dignity of the Art: Since no less a Man, than the chief of their Monarchs, and the greatest of their Conquerors, was ordained by God, to be their Poet and Musician on that occasion.

And it were easy to prove, that the same Celestial Spirit of Musical Concord and Harmony, was all along cherished and entertained in the Christian Church, during the very best Times of its purest Doctrines and Devotions.

It will be enough, only to mention one undeniable Instance, That, in the Primitive Age, during the cruellest Persecutions, in their most Private and Nightly Assemblies, the Christians of that early Time, as Pliny informed Trajan, remarkably distinguish'd themselves, by their alternate Singing of Psalms, and Spiritual Songs.

Such, Madame, have been always the Employments of the Sublime Art of Musick, to teach and cultivate Humanity; to Civilize Nations; to Adorn Courts; to Inspirit Armies; to Inspire Temples and Churches; to sweeten and reform the fierce and barbarous Passions; to excite the Brave and the Magnanimous; and, above all, to inflame the Pious and the Devout.

For these Reasons, it has all along receiv'd the Encouragement and Favour of the Greatest, the Wisest, the most Religious, the most Heroick Persons of all Ages. And it seems but reasonable, that it should be so ; that they should principally take upon them the care of this High-born Science of Tuneful Sounds and Numbers, whose Souls are more elevated than others, and seem most to partake of that Natural, and Divine Harmony, it professes to Teach.

The Dedication.

You see, Madame, what undoubted Title Your Royal Highness has to the Patronage of this Art. It is Your own by many rightful Claims, not only for your High Birth and Royal Dignity, but for something, that is even yet more Your own ; for that admirable temper of Spirit, that harmonious sweetness of Disposition, that silent Melody, and charming Musick of Your whole Life.

After I have said this, it cannot be denied, but that, by inscribing these Papers to Your Royal Highness, I have chosen the worthiest and most excellent Patroness for these my Studies, that this Nation, or Age has produc'd. Yet I must still confess, while I Applaud my self for the happiness of my Choice, the ambition of it puts me into Confusion : I am ashamed to think, that to such a Patroness I can present so very little, either worthy of the Art I admire, or of the Glorious Princess to whom I dedicate all my Muses.

But for that part, which concerns Your self, Madame, Your own Goodness and Benignity, has set my Mind at ease, by Your generous Invitation and favourable Promise, of accepting the low low Present I now offer, and Your Gracious Assurance of a perpetual Protection to its Author.

The Dedication.

And that also, if any thing can, may possibly enable me to supply the other Part better for the future, and lift up my Genius to something more becoming the Majesty of the Art it self.

The two most Noble ends of Musick Vocal and Instrumental, being either to raise and nourish the tender, and the Generous Passions of Love, Friendship, and Honour, among Men; or to animate our Affections, and to kindle the ardour and zeal of our Devotions towards God: I must own, that what I now lay at your Royal Highness's Feet, consists only in some weak Performances of the first kind. •

I will make no Apology for the Subjects of any of them, thô they are generally conversant about Love-Affairs; since the diversitements and delights of those softer Affections, when conceiv'd in pure Thoughts, and cloath'd with innocent Expressions, have been always allowed in all Wise and Good-natur'd Polite Nations; and never any where Condemn'd by the truly Good and Honourable part of Mankind.

I dare affirm, that nothing but the unsociable sullenness of a Cynick, would ever exclude secular Musick, so qualified, out of Civil Societies; as nothing but the perverse sownerness of a Fanatick, would ever drive Divine Musick out of the Church.

But

The Dedication.

But yet, lest a Work of this Nature, thô perhaps not blameable in itself, either for the Matter, or the manner of it, shoud however seem to fall below what is due to Your Royal Highness's Greatness of Mind, and consummate Virtue : Give me leave, Madame, to tell You, I am preparing, as fast as I can, to make some amends for this, by a Second Musical Present, upon Arguments incomparably better : I mean my Church-Services, and Divine Compositions.

To those, in truth, I have ever more especially consecrated the Thoughts of my whole Life. All the rest I consider but as the Blossoms, or rather the Leaves ; those I only esteem as the Fruits of all my Labours in this kind. With them I began my first Youthful Raptures in this Art : With them, I hope calmly and comfortably to finish my days. Nor will my Mind be ever at rest, till I have offer'd them up to God, for the Publick use of the best Church in the Christian World, under the Propitious Authority of Your Royal Highness's Name.

May it please Your Royal Highness,

I am Your most Humble, most Dutiful,

and most Devoted Servant,

J O H N B L O W.

To the Most Incomparable Master of Musick, Dr. John Blow: Occasion'd by his obliging the World with his Inimitable Amphion Anglicus.

*T*HÔ Works like Thine, and of establish'd

Yet since the Muse is only born to wait
On the Stupendous Labours of the Great,
Give her her Birth-right, and accept the Plea
She makes to Fame Her self, by Singing Thee.

Being a Parallel equalling Poetry with Musick: Compos'd into a Catch for Four; and made in Honour of my Worthy Friend, Dr. John Blow, and his Extraordinary Work.

I.

When Rome was in her Glorious State,
Great Maro with Augustus fate;
The Nobles, and the Vulgar Throng,
Were Charm'd with his Immortal Song.

II.

So whil'st Apollo's Race can Sing,
Great Blow will be true Musick's King;
As Nations must resound his Praise,
Far as the Sun extends his Rays.

III.

Let Poetry then gain Renown,
And yield the Bard his Verdant Crown,
Whilst Ancient Tyber bears its Name,
Sing, Sing to his Exalted Fame.

IV.

Let Musick too its due receive,
And let its best Composer live :
While silver Thames does Ebb and Flow,
Drink drink a Health to famous Blow.

To his Esteemed Friend, Dr. Blow, upon Publishing his Book of Songs.

(quire
A Publick Good, does Publick Thanks re-
And All shou'd strive to Praise what All (Admire.

The Art of Descent, late our Albions boast,
With that of Staining Glafs, we thought was (lost;

Till in this Work we all with Wonder view,
What ever Art, with order'd Notes can do,
Corelli's Heights, with Great Baffani's too ;
And Britain's Orpheus learn'd his Art from You.

Long have we been with Balladry opprest,
Good Senfe Lampoon'd, and Harmony Bur(lesq't;

Musick of many Parts, has now no force,
Whole Reams of single Songs become our (Curse,

With Baf's wond'rous Lewd, and Trebles
(worse.

But yet the Luscious Lore goes glibly down,
And still the Doubl'Entendre takes the Town.
Let 'em Sing on—and for fair Sylvia's sake,
Some Merry Madrigal to Musick make,
Then point the Names of those that Sett and (Wrote 'em,

With Lords a-top, and Block-heads at the Bot(tom ;

While at the Shops we daily dangling view
False Concord, by Tom Cro's Engraven true.

Nor are you by this Work to raise a Name,
Go Perjur'd Man, long since approv'd your Fame

You first our Modern Musick did refine,
Rugged and rough, like Mettal in the Mine,
You purg'd the Drofs, and stamp'd it into (Coin.)

How much we owe to that Harmonious Quill,
That first reform'd, and is our Standard still !
(take,

Thus tho' you shine, yet you no Pride par-
Your Temper's easy, as the Ayrs you make.
Unask'd to all, you gen'rously impart
The Beauties of your most Harmonious Art :
For scarce our Isle a Tuneful Bard can show,
But first, or last, has been Inspir'd by You.

When I review thy Harmony Divine,
What happy Stroaks through ev'ry Office thine
Others in Ayr, have to Perfection grown,
But Canon is an Art that's Thine alone.
Thus, tho a Multitude of Writers Rhime,
How few but Milton ever reach'd Sublime !
Thus many a Painter can a Portrait make,
That dares not Noble Hist'ry undertake ;
There how to faintly fall, and gently rile,
How to keep back, and how to catch the Eyes ;
All in a happy Order to dispose,
None but a Vario, or a Kneller knows.

(I sit,
Thus while you spread your Fame, at Home
Amov'd by Fate, from Melody and Wit,
Whe British Bard on Harp a Trebæn plays,
With grated Ears I saunter out my days.
Shore's most Harmonious Tube, ne'er strikes

(my Ear,
Nought of the Bard, besides his Fame, I hear :
No Chaunting at St. Paul's, regales my Senfes,
I'm only vers'd in Usum Herefordensis.
But if by chance some Charming Piece I view,

By all carref'd, because put forth by You ;
As when of Old, a Knight long lost in Love,
Whose Phillis, neither Brine nor Blood cou'd

[move,
Throws down his Lance, & lays his Armor by,
And falls from Errantry to Elegy :

But if some mighty Hero's Fame he hears,
That like a Torrent, all before him bear's,
In haste he mounts his Trusty Steed again,
And led by Glory, scow'r's along the Plain ;
So I with equal ardour seize my Flute,

And string again my long neglected Lute.

Henry Hall, Organist of Hereford.

To my much Honoured Master, Dr. John Blow, on the Publication of his Amphion Anglicus.

When Art, with ev'ry study'd Grace
And springs a-fresh from Venerable
Years,
As youthful Strength, with aged Judgment
(join's,
And stamps unerring Charms on all its Lines,
Just is our Wonder, and the feeblest Lays
May be excus'd for joining in its Praise ;
Since in their Deathless Subject they may live,
And take those Honours which they cannot (give ;
Else had I (with the num'rous rest who share
The Bounties of your Guidance and your Care)
Lain undistinguish'd from the Ravish'd Throng
And paid my Admiration for my Song :
But all-Commanding Gratitude denies
That I shou'd only feast my Soul and Eyes,
Entranc'd with Pleasure, and o'erwhelm'd with (Joy,
Which ever Fills, but yet can never Cloy,
My Tongue must dwell on, and my Pen must (write,
And Bless the Source whence issue's such De(light.

Oh ! more than Man ! how boundless is (your Skill !
It Chain's the Soul, and Captivate's the Will !
Keep's ev'ry Sense employ'd, and make's us fee
What Your Composures are, and Ours shou'd be ;
As ev'ry Tuneful Note Correctly true,
Still gives us Beauties, and those Beauties New.
Fair, and yet Strong, tho Modest, yet they (Please,
Laborious, yet Attractive in their Ease :
Of many Parts, yet all those Parts agree,
And in Divisions, shew us Symmetry,
While you the Treasures of your Mind impart,
And follow Nature, as you Conquer A.R.T.
I, with the rest you have vouchsaf'd to Teach,
Must Wonder at the Skill we cannot Reach.

Jeremy Clarke, Organist of St. Paul's London.

To Dr. BLOW.

A Mpbion's Lute of old with Magick Art,
To senseless Stones, new Passions did im[part :
The stubborn Flint his gentle Notes control,
And Musick animate's it with a Soul : (Lyre
Such power he shews with his commanding
As bold Prometheus with his stolen Fire :
VVith active Life the clumsy Quarries dance,
And well-form'd Cities as he plays advance.
On Salvage Beasts did Orpheus waft his Skill,
And th' echoing Woods with strange amazement fill,
If he with soothing Sounds their Fierceness
might assuage,
Pull down the Lyons Pride, or curb the Tyger's (Rage :
And since 'twou'd seem amongst 'em Reason
dwells,
And Beasts Philosophize within their Cells.

But Musick was for Nobler Ends design'd,
By Nature form'd to regulate our Mind,
Thick Mist and gloomy Vapours to dispel,
And troubled motions of the Blood to quell :
To tune the Jarring World to Peace and Love,
And fit us here to join the Choir above.
Thus has our Isle been long oblig'd by Blow
Who first with decent Modesty did show
In blooming Purcell what himself cou'd do.
On Purcell his whole Genius he bestow'd,
And all the Master's Graces in the Pupil flow'd ;
But he unable long to bear the Load,
Opprest with Rapture, sunk beneath the God ;
Home then the welcome Deity returns,
And Blow again with youthful Transports
[burns.

Doctor, I own it—'tis a Debt I owe,
 Besides the Subject will command it now:
 The Theme's so vast, and so incites my Mind,
 It runs o'er all, and leaves the Pen behind,
 And yet the nearest, neatest Thoughts must fall
 Immensely short of the Original :
 Hard Circumstances of Imperfect Man,
 What he wou'd show the Most, the least he (can:

The utmost I can do, is to confess
 I can Admire far better than Express.
 So well design'd in so sublime an Air,
 So Easy all, so ravishing to the Ear
 Is ev'ry Song, that own's Your artful Care. }
 And such are these, whose ev'ry charming Note
 Seem to command a more than Mortal Throat;
 More Soul, more Vigor to express their Life,
 Than the low reach of Human Voice can give:
 So Firm, so Just are all the Parts so strong
 Is ev'ry Sinew of each well-wrought Song :
 Concord with Discords knit, so well agree,
 That both Unite, to make one Harmony.
 So sweet are all the Turns; so soft they move,
 The Notes alone woud teach us thoughts of (Love;

Notes that by artful Numbers do us raise
 By their own Energy to speak their Praise.

Harmonious Man! 'tis You alone excell;
 Since those w' admir'd before, scarce now do
 The very Eulogies of former days, (well:
 But Satyrs are upon the thing they'd Praise;
 So far you have out-gone them, none but You
 Cou'd set so Brisk, so Manly, and so True.
 Music's great Standard Thou alon must be,
 And all preceeding Sons of Harmony
 May Imitate, but ne'er can equal Thee. }

 [Your Lays,
 But I a double Debt must ever owe,
 And for two Benefits, my Thanks bestow ;
 'Tis true, the Book it self's a Worthy Theme,
 To take up all their Thoughts, and their Esteem;
 But yet the Honour that is done me bear's
 A Value greater far, than is in Theirs,
 Since I not only my Contentment raise,
 But Live by that, which others only Praje.

William Pearson.

A Pindarick ODE,
On Dr. BLOW's Excellency in the ART of MUSIC.
By Mr. HERBERT.

I.

The Liberal Arts,
 Which flourish'd long in Greece, their Native Soil,
 Transplanted into other Parts,
 Answer'd the Care, and Toil.
 In Italy, that Emulous Land,
 The Sciences did readily take Root,
 Grow up, and into Branches Shoot,
 Like those Spontaneous Plants of Thriving Nature's hand.
 The Climate so serene, so delicate the Air,
 Music improv'd to that degree,
 The Banks of Tyber were adjudg'd the Fair,
 The Pleasant Garden of sweet Harmony!
 Nor prov'd the British, an ungrateful Climate,
 Those Cyons, which were brought from thence,
 Two great Improvers, Industry, and Time,
 To that Perfection rais'd, more than a Cent'ry since,
 They yielded such Fair, Golden, lasting Fruit,
 As gain'd in Rome It Self, the best Repute:
 And there the Rich Produce do's still remain,
 Preserv'd Intire in the Vatican.

Bird's An-
tibes in Golden Notes,

II.

Thus Bird, a British Worthy, spread his Name,
 And for his Country gain'd this early Fame;
 And down from him, in Time's successive Flow,
 Many a Noble Genius cou'd we show,
 But not One Greater, None more Excellent than Blow.
 In Sacred Harmony, how just his Thoughts!
 Such as may rightly claim the Roman Golden Notes!
 His Gloria Patri long ago reach'd Rome,
 Sung, and rever'd too in St. Peter's Dome;
 A Canon — will outlive Her Jubilees to come.
 Celestial Hymns! Not one of His can dye;
 How they excite Devotion! mount it high!
 Teaching the Prostrate, Humble Soul to fly,
 And, with Alauda, most Divinely Sing,
 As She is soaring to the Sky,
 Assisted by a Seraph's stronger Wing.

III. Great

III.

*Great Master of the Instrument Divine !
Descended of Inspir'd Jubabs Line !
How many Plants of Art, set by His Hand,
Have spread, and still are spreading o'er the Land !*

*Cedars in Libanus cou'd not thicker stand.
One hopeful stripling soon grew very Tall,
Higher than all the rest, like goodly Saul ;
And, if the Muse late Sorrows don't recall,
Nor we disturb a Soul at rest,
'Twas Purcell, Purcell—Harry the Great, the Blest !
His Labours highly of the Muse deserve ;
And She as tenderly will ever Them Preserve.
His fam'd Te Deum, all the World admires,
Perform'd in those Renown'd Italian Quires !
The Master's, which He knew to be Sublime,
The Scholar often wish'd to hear,
Desiring here below, no longer time.
But Providence which granted not that Pray'r,
Took Him away, and left us here to Grieve,
And doleful Sounds were hear'd on St. Cecilia's Eve.
Thus Orpheus fell ; the Hills and Valleys Groan,
The Nymys lament, his Lyre Changes Tone,
Makes a most Sad, most grievous Moan,
When in the Troubl'd River Hebrus thrown.*

IV.

But let her Mourning Muse dry up her Tears,
New-Tune Her Lute, or change the Strings,
And touch the New, those cheerful Airs
AMPHION brings.
Those to the Ear more Consonant, more Kind ;
Those which compose the most disorder'd Mind ;
Thoughts ruffl'd with the blackest stormy Wind.
The Lyrift, when he's setting Songs of Love,
Solo's which suit a Lover's tender Care,
A thousand Cupids hover in the Air ;
And that the Charms may due Compassion move,
They learn and Sing 'em to the absent Fair.
When in a Numerous Song He was requir'd
To sing the Hero of the War,
The Noble subiect warm'd his Fancy, fir'd ;
Then how the Consort-Trumpet was Inspir'd !
The Strains were bold, and strong,
Lofty as Pindar's Dithyrambic Song ;
Sometimes the Notes, at the Composer's choice,
Soft, as Syrinna's Flute, Sweet, as Phoneffa's Voice !
Nothing more Nicely Echo's softest Air,
But Arabella's Fine, Unparalleld Guitar.

A Dialogue between HORACE and LYDIA.

Horace.

Hor. Lib. 3. Ode 9.

 Hilt on your Neck, no Ri—val Boy; more welcome, welcome, more welcome welcome, welcome threw his Arms than I; your Horace Lydia, live'd more blest, than the great Monarch the great Mon- - - - - arch of the East.
