When Tempests o'er the Ocean howl,
 And even Sailors shrink with dread,
 Be some protecting Angel near,
 To hover round my William's head.
 He was belov'd by all the plain,
 His Father's pride, his Mother's joy,
 Then safely to their arms restore,
 Their dear their much lov'd Sailor Boy.

May no rude Foe his course impede,
 Conduct him safely o'er the Waves,
 O may he never be compell'd,
 To fight for Power or mix with Slaves.
 May smiling Peace his steps attend,
 Each rising hour be crown'd with joy,
 As blest as that when I again,
 Shall meet my much lov'd Sailor Boy.
