THE HERMIT

by D^r. Beattie

The contents of this Book

At the close of the Day, when the Hamlet is still,
And Mortals the sweets of forgetfulness prove;
When nought but the torrent is heard on the Hill,
And nought but the Nightingale's Song in the Grove:
'Twas then by the Cave of a Mountain reclin'd,
A Hermit his nightly Complaint thus began;
Tho' mournful his numbers, his Soul was resign'd,
He thought as a Sage, tho' he felt as a Man.

Now gliding remote on the verge of the Sky,
The Moon half extinguish'd her Crescent displays.
But lately I mark'd when Majestic on high.
She shone, and the Planets were lost in her blaze:
Roll on, thou fair Orb, and with gladness pursue.
The Path that conducts thee to Splendor again:
But Man's faded Glory no change shall renew,
Ah Fool! to exult in a Glory so vain.

Ah! why thus abandon'd to Darkness and Woe?
Why thus lovely Philomel flows thy sad strain?
For Spring shall return and a Lover bestow,
And thy Bosom no trace of Misfortune retain:
Yet if Pity inspire thee, Oh. cease not the lay,
Mourn sweetest Complainant, Man calls thee to mourn; Kind Nature the embryo Blossom shall save:
Oh. sooth him whose Pleasures like thine pass away, But when shall Spring visit the mouldering Urn?
Full quickly they pass, but they never return.

'Tis Night, and the Landscape is lovely no more,
I Mourn, but ye Woodlands I Mourn not for you.
For Morn is approaching your Charms to restore.
Perfum'd with fresh fragrance, and glittering with dew.
Not yet for the ravage of Winter I mourn,
Kind Nature the embryo Blossom shall save:
But when shall Spring visit the mouldering Urn?
Oh. when shall it dawn on the Night of the Grave?

A Continuation being the contents of the second Book

'Twas thus, by the glare of false science betray'd,
That lead, to bewilder; and dazzles to blind;
My thoughts wont to roam, from shade onward to shade,
Destruction before me, and sorrow behind.
O pity great Father of light, then I cry'd,
Thy creature who fain would not wander from thee!
Lo. humbled in dust, I relinquish my pride:
From doubt and from darkness thou only canst free,

And darkness and doubt are now flying away,
No longer I roam in conjecture forlorn;
So breaks on the traveller, faint, and astray,
The bright and the balmy effulgence of morn.
See truth, love, and mercy, in triumph descending,
And nature all glowing in Eden's first bloom!
On the cold cheek of death smiles and roses are blending,
And beauty immortal awakes from the tomb.

THE HERMIT.

by DR. Beattie.

At the close of the day, when the hamlet is still,
And mortals the sweets of forgetfulness prove,
When nought but the torrent is heard on the hill,
And nought but the Nightingale's Song in the grove :
'Twas thus, by the cave of the mountain afar,
While his harp rung symphonious, a Hermit began;
No more with himself or with nature at war,
He thought as a sage, though he felt as a man .

"Now gliding remote, on the verge of the sky,
"The moon half extinguish'd her crescent displays:
"But lately I mark'd, when majestic on high
"She shone, and the planets were lost in her blaze.
"Roll on, thou fair orb, and with gladness pursue
"The path that conducts thee to splendor again,
"But man's faded glory what change shall renew!
"Ah fool! to exult in a glory so vain !

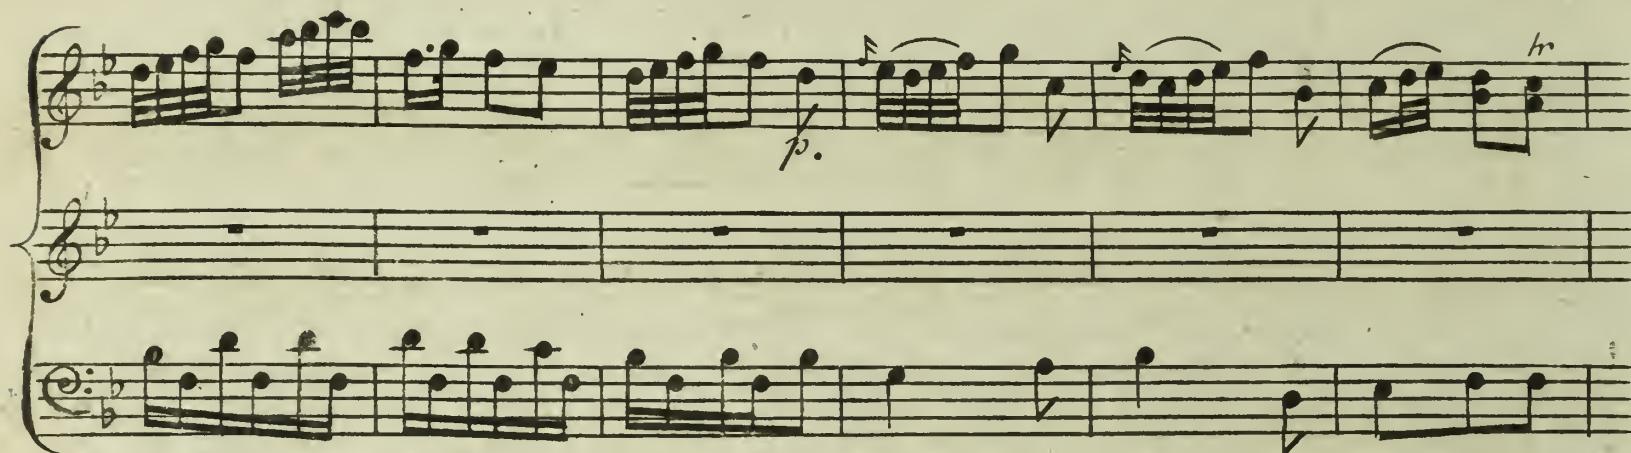

"Ah why, all abandon'd to darkness and woe,
"Why, lone Philomela, that languishing fall ?
"For Spring shall return, and a lover bestow,
"And sorrow no longer thy bosom intral.
"But, if pity inspire thee, renew the sad lay,
"Mourn sweetest complainer, man calls thee to mourn;
"O soothe him, whose pleasures like thine pass away,
"Full quickly they pass — but they never return .

"Tis night, and the landscape is lovely no more;
"I mourn, but, ye woodlands, I mourn not for you;
"For morn is approaching, your charms to restore,
"Perfum'd with fresh fragrance, & glittering with dew.
"Nor yet for the ravage of winter I mourn;
"Kind nature the embryo blossom will save .
"But when shall Spring visit the mouldering urn!
"O when shall it dawn on the night of the grave!"
