The Parishional Choir

30 Short Anthems for Mixed Voices with Organ (or Piano) Accompaniment

Edited by ARTHUR H. RYDER

Price, n $1.35

This collection was made with the special aim

I—to serve the needs of average choirs whose anthem repertory must consist of selections easily learned, mostly not long, readily appropriate, and inviting frequent repetition;

II—to include a considerable proportion of anthems without solos, while meeting the demand for some solo opportunities;

III—to recognize the desire for distinctly religious types of expression in church music, without overlooking the necessary element of musical attractiveness.

Seventeen of the numbers are copyright originals, to be had in no other compilation, and there are five new arrangements (none having secular analogies).

Selections confined to use at Christmas and Easter have been omitted, many of the Anthems, however, lend themselves appropriately to special use.

The University Choir

35 Short Anthems for Men's Voices with Organ (or Piano) Accompaniment

Price, n $1.25

All anthems have been especially prepared for this book and provided with texts having force and reality for young men. The need of anthems for particular occasions incident to the college year (commencement, opening of the term, memorial services, vesper services, national commemorations, etc.) has been duly regarded. More than twenty-five of the pieces are usable both in Trinitarian and non-Trinitarian services. Organ accompaniments have been supplied throughout, together with breathing marks and other directions for the convenience of inexperienced singers. The vocal ranges lie within moderate limits.

The Seminary Choir

30 Short Anthems for Women's Voices with Organ (or Piano) Accompaniment

Price, n $1.25

Anthems for women's voices are not so abundant as to make superfluous an attempt to assemble a suitable body of such material for use in colleges. This collection is intended to make available, compositions not commonly accessible. Sentimentality and unseemly religious expressions, have been avoided, especially where anthems are to be used by young people. Preference has been given mainly to three-part writing because of the rarity of low alto voices in college choirs. Breathing marks have been supplied, with directions for the convenience of untrained singers, and the vocal range is never taxing.

The Organ Accompaniment of the Church Service

By H. W. RICHARDS, Mus. Doc., etc., Professor of the Organ and Choir Training in the Royal Academy of Music, London

Price, n $1.25

A reference manual which obviously serves a genuine need felt by the student and which will hasten the effective application of his technique to the actual conditions of an organist's location. It is a work of great value, the result of deep study and practical experience.

Hymn playing receives extended and illuminating treatment. Along with the complete details of service routine the writer provides valuable suggestions, both abundant and concise, on the subjects of varieties of touch, suitable and varied accompaniments to chorales, registration, the accompaniment of plain song, ornamentation and the necessary adaptation of piano accompaniments. The chapters devoted to an interpretative analysis of each one of the psalms and canticles are of special usefulness.

The book becomes a necessity to the accompanist of Anglican services. At the same time, organists in other fields will find in this manual a rich store of helps to the attainment of a fine ideal which, in its basis and spirit, has no legitimate substitute in any type of true worship.
