

SECOND EDITION, REVISED, NOW READY.

BEETHOVEN AND HIS NINE SYMPHONIES

BY GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, SIX SHILLINGS.

THE TIMES.

Sir George Grove's analyses of Beethoven's Symphonies have long been familiar, not only to every frequenter of the Crystal Palace Concerts, for which they were at first designed, but to all lovers of music in England. They may most truly be said to have become household words, and it seems almost strange that a piece of musical literature so well known and so highly valued should never before have appeared in book form. The analytical programmes, with the musical examples, form the groundwork of the volume, published by Messrs. Novello under the title "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies," but these have been amplified and their value largely increased by the addition of documents before only referred to.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance.

MORNING POST.

Sir George Grove's book is irresistibly fascinating. It is never unduly pedantic, and the information it contains is conveyed in a style at once terse and lucid, whilst its pages are interspersed with many anecdotes and interesting details of the great master's life.

GLOBE.

Sir George Grove seems to have discovered a good deal of new material, which forms by no means the least valuable part of the book. In his estimate of Beethoven Sir George Grove writes like an enthusiast, but his enthusiasm is tempered with sound judgment, and his style is always pleasant, and often eloquent in the best sense of the term.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.

It would be difficult to say whether Sir George Grove's admirable volume is more to be esteemed for its biographical or its critical chapters. Probably for neither, but rather for those in which biography and criticism go hand-in-hand together. It needed an enthusiast gifted with industry and the spirit of research to produce such a work.

SPECTATOR.

The most important and valuable of his contributions to the literature of the concert-room have been developed into a book which for many years is likely to remain the standard work on the subject. . . . Sir George writes as a thorough-going hero-worshipper, but personally we find his enthusiasm infectious. No one can rise from the perusal of these fascinating chapters without an enhanced reverence—amounting almost to awe—for the daemonic genius whose workings are here so vividly set forth.

SUNDAY TIMES.

No one can fail to have his enjoyment of the Symphonies enormously increased by reading the work which will henceforth be indispensable to every student of Beethoven.

THE PEOPLE.

Sir George Grove has performed his self-imposed task with such thoroughness that, after reading the volume, there will be little, if anything, left for amateurs to learn concerning the Nine Symphonies.

YORKSHIRE POST.

We might go on for long enough discussing points suggested by this delightful book, and must be contented with very cordially recommending it to all musically inclined persons, whether they want to become acquainted with the immortal Nine, or only to refresh their recollection of these unapproachable masterpieces.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

Amateurs and students will welcome the present volume as a very valuable contribution to the large store of information which has been published regarding the immortal Nine Symphonies of Beethoven. . . . The most valuable and most recent information about, and bearing upon, the Nine Symphonies is brought together and set forth in that masterly and scholarly way which characterises everything undertaken by the enthusiastic ex-director of the Royal College of Music.

ISRAELITES.

The words of this Oratorio, originally written in English, were translated into German for the purpose of being set to music by Dr. Spohr, whose approbation the poem fortunately obtained. The German translator having in most of the pieces altered the original metre, the present libretto is of necessity conformed to his version, and even the metrical errors are unavoidably retained. Of the original poem, little more in fact remains than the sense and the scheme.

Part the First.

OVERTURE.

SCENE.—The banks of the Euphrates, near Babylon.

No. 1.—CHORUS OF JEWS.

God of our fathers, hear thy people,
In sorrow and abasement who implore thee!
Forsaken, captive, and of hope bereft,
They fly to thee;
To thee, O Jehovah, thy children cry in trouble;
O bow thine ear and hear us, while in bondage
We mourn and languish!

SOLO.—Israelitish Woman.

Beloved Zion, shall our feet
No more thy sacred courts attend?
No more shall praise to Israel's God
From grateful hearts and tongues ascend?

CHORUS.

Arise in wrath, Almighty Lord,
Strike our oppressors down!
To Israel, trusting in thy word,
Let mercy still be shown.

No. 2.—RECITATIVE. Daniel.

O how familiar to mine ear are these deep sounds
Of sorrow! Jerusalem, the stranger hath despoil'd
Judah, thy glory is departed! Thy power [thee :
For hard captivity exchanged: from heaven to
The Lord hath cast thee down. [earth

Abroad the sword bereaveth, and within is death!
O thou Almighty God, to whom alone
We look for succour, stretch forth thine arm
Of power, and save thy chosen nation!

No. 3.—SONG.

Remember, Lord, what thou hast laid upon us;
our inheritance thou hast given to strangers.

O wherefore dost thou forsake thy people, and why dost thou forget us for ever?

Return unto thy servants, and their strength do thou renew as in time of old.

No. 4.—CHORUS.

The lion roused from slumber is springing,
His roar through the forest and mountain is ringing,
And desolate mourneth Judea's fair land;
In darkness, O Lord, thou veilest thy face:
In storm and in whirlwind thy judgements are
Oh save us—save our fallen race! [known;

SCENE.—The Persian Camp.

No. 5.—RECITATIVE. Cyrus.

Judea's God hath spoken, and by his holy Prophet thus made known his sovereign will:
To desolate Jerusalem he saith,—“Be thou glad; thy captive children yet once more thy walls shall see.”

To Judah's cities,—“Straight shall ye be built!”
and to the deep,—“Be dry!”

He hath declared, “Cyrus, my shepherd, my anointed, thee have I chosen my will to execute, that all the world may acknowledge I am the Lord!”

No. 6.—SONG.

Mighty God, thy awful mandate
Teach, O teach me to fulfill!
Israel's foes in vain defy thee.
And resist thy sovereign will.

No. 7.—SOLO, Cyrus, AND CHORUS OF PERSIAN SOLDIERS.

Cyrus.

Haughty Babylon, heaven's vengeance
Like the thunderbolt shall fall!
Children of your Maker's care,
Hail the hour of freedom near!

Chorus.

Proud monarch, arise! prepare for the fight,
The sword of the Mede is uplifted to smite:
Secure in thy strength thou hast armies defied,
The arm of our Chief shall quell thy pride.

Aloud thy crimes for vengeance call,
The lightning gleams,—the bolt shall fall.

SCENE.—A House in Babylon.

Jewish Mother, watching her sleeping Child.

No. 8.—SONG.

Dear child of bondage, nursed in sorrow,
Thy mother's love shall guard thy sleep:
An hour of peace from slumber borrow,
While she thy couch will watch, and weep.
Then sleep, my child, in peace repose,
Unconscious of thy parent's woes.

May Zion's God his watchful care extend,
His arm of power outstretched o'er thee,
And to thy father's land restore thee,
There in his courts with joy to bend.
When earthly friends and hopes are gone,
He is our refuge,—He alone!

No. 9.—RECITATIVE. Israelitish Man.

Joy, joy to thee I bring, dear partner of my sor-
The hour of freedom so oft desired, is [rows,—
At hand. In vision hath our holy Prophet seen
The long-delay'd redemption of our race
At length fulfill'd. Jehovah in his wrath
Shall rise, his mighty arm our proud oppressor
Shall humble.

No. 10.—DUET.—Israelitish Man and Woman.

Judah, still the chosen nation,
Though by earthly friends forsaken,
Call Jehovah thy salvation,
Trust in Him with faith unshaken.
When the clouds of sorrow gather,
And when darkness veils thy face,
Teach us still thy love to trace,
God of mercy, Israel's father!

SCENE.—The Persian Camp, without the walls of Babylon.

No. 11.—CHORUS OF PERSIAN SOLDIERS.

Raise aloft the Persian banner,
Wave on high the faulchion bright;
Vengeance, Babylon, awaits thee,
Cyrus dares thee to the fight!
Sleep'st thou in thy fancied safety?
Rise, awake! thy hour is come!
See the mighty tempest gather
Which shall hurl thee to thy doom.

No. 12.—RECITATIVE. Cyrus.

Great Queen of Cities! do I gaze upon thee
Throned in might, in majesty and beauty,
Thy massy walls to heaven uprear'd,
Thy hundred gates, thy towers that seem to frown
Defiance, and thy zone of waters; while
Across thy bosom his broad and ample tide
Euphrates rolls, bedeck'd with verdant groves
And costly palaces? At man's unaided power
Well mayst thou laugh. But God,
The God of Israel, thy doom hath now decreed:
He hath said, “The day approacheth, yea the hour
Is near, that I, the Lord, will visit thee!”

Chorus repeated.

Raise aloft the Persian banner, &c.

SCENE.—Babylon.

No. 13.—CHORUS OF JEWS.

Lord, before thy footstool bending,
Teach us to adore thy ways!
Heart and voice in rapture blending,
And in strains of joy ascending,
Swell the hymn of ardent praise.
Darkness long thy throne surrounding
Veil'd the brightness of thy face;
Now thy power our foes confounding,
And thy mercy still abounding,
Speak the fullness of thy grace.

Thou, whose temple is creation,
Throned in everlasting power,
Lord of every land and nation,
We proclaim thy great salvation,
And thy majesty adore !

No. 14.—RECITATIVE. Daniel.

The day approacheth—the day of wrath ! The Lord hath made bare his mighty arm : on Babylon the sword shall fall, the spoiler is upon her. Her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities.

No. 15.—TERZETTO.

Loud proclaim the great salvation
God for Israel hath prepared !
Lo, his Shepherd hath appear'd,
And again our favour'd nation
His paternal mercy shared.

Lord, thou hast remember'd Zion
Fall'n beneath th' oppressor's blow,
Sunk in bondage and in woe ;
Now before the mighty Lion
Bel shall stoop and Nebo bow.

No. 16.—SONG.—Israelitish Woman.

No longer shall Judea's children wander [thee] ;
From home estranged, loved Zion, far from Lo, Cyrus comes ! God's holy will fulfilling,
To quell the proud, to set the captive free.

O long-lost joys, are ye indeed returning ?
Shall years of peace succeed to days of mourn-
What hopes, what visions bright [ing] ?
Enchant my raptur'd sight !

No. 17.—CHORUS OF JEWS.

“ Come down, and in the dust be humbled,” saith the Lord. “ My hand is outstretched against thee, the sword of vengeance shall overtake thee, thou shalt be desolate for ever.” Thus saith the Lord of Hosts.

Babylon shall fall : her foundations shall be destroyed, and her walls into dust shall crumble.
This is the wrath of God.

Rejoice, and triumph in your God ! He shall reign for ever, even the mighty God of Israel.
Hallelujah—Amen !

Part the Second.

SCENE.—Babylon, Banquet Hall in the Palace.

No. 18.—CHORUS.

Haste, haste to the banquet where pleasure pre-
With wine be our goblets o'erflowing ; [sides,
Belshazzar appears at our revels to-night,
With joy every bosom is glowing :

Hail, Belshazzar, hail !

While Beauty's sweet smiles beaming brightly around

Awaken new joys and give zest to our wine,
The Gods, when beholding our festive delights,
May envy ev'n mortals such pleasure divine :
Hail, Belshazzar, hail !

No. 19.—CHORUS OF PRIESTS OF BEL.

O mighty Bel, great ruler of the nations,
With songs of triumph now thy sons adore thee !
Our enemies beneath thy stroke are humbled
And in the dust all prostrate lie before thee :
Attend our rites, great monarch of the skies !

And while with festive mirth and wine
We meet before thy sacred shrine,
Accept our sacrifice !

No. 20.—CHORUS OF WOMEN.

Haste, haste, gallant youths, O what pleasure awaits us !

No cares shall intrude on our revels to-night ;
Hark ! music invites us, her strains how entranceing !
The joys of the dance shall crown our delight.

CHORUS OF JEWS.

Arise, O Lord, array'd in terror !

O thou to whom creation bows ;
Shall idol gods, thy name usurping,
Receive thy creatures' impious vows ?

Shall rebel mortals dare deny thee,
Whose power the universe sustains ?
Shall Babylon's proud king defy thee,
And Abraham's sons retain in chains ?

Great God of uncontroll'd dominion,
Who art through endless years the same,
While sinners tremble at thy judgements,
We'll triumph in thy holy name.

No. 21.—RECITATIVE. Belshazzar.

Slaves ! do ye dare my vengeance, and thus
With frantic folly defy the mighty arm
That crush'd and holds ye captive ?
Let Babylon's great monarch give the mandate,
And ye are dust beneath his feet.

Hath not your God forsaken,
And left you in my hands a helpless prey ?
Free let the revels flow, and hither bring
The rich and sacred vessels
That once adorn'd his temple,
Hear, ye detested Hebrews, thus we deride
Your God !

No. 22.—DUET.

Nitocris.

Forbear, my son, with impious rage,
Jehovah's power to dare.

Belshazzar.

I scorn his power—his threats defy,
Belshazzar knows not fear.

Nitocris.

O think what judgements here of old
Declared his sovereign might !

Belshazzar.

You vainly plead—his temple's spoils
Shall grace our pomp to-night.

CHORUS OF PRIESTS.

So long as Bel shall rule the day,
On earth his brightness pouring,
And light and life, his gifts, convey
To realms his power adoring,
Thy mighty name, thy splendour vast,
Great Babylon, unchanged shall last.

CHORUS OF BABYLONISH WOMEN.

So long as Nebo, queen of night,
Heaven's starry vault ascendeth,
And thence her ever-changing light
O'er silent earth extendeth,
The prostrate nations shall obey,
And own, Great Babylon, thy sway.

No. 23.—RECITATIVE. Belshazzar.

Fill me to the brim the massy goblet !
Ye vanquish'd slaves, ye vassal Hebrews, where
Is now your God ? Say why delays the power
Ye call so mighty ?
Let him appear, his name to vindicate !
Ha ! what meteor before my dazzled sight appears ?
What power directs that hand, beneath whose touch
Leaps out a dazzling flame ? My joints are all Unloosed, and my strength is gone. Ye strange
And mystic symbols, why do ye thus appal me ?
Wild and terrible forebodings, say whence come
Horrible vision, glaring on my sight, [ye ?
Reveal your dark intent.
Say, ye Chaldean Soothsayers, what language,
What hidden meaning have these burning characters ?
Answer !

Soothsayer.

O mighty Sovereign, were these the flames
That in his temple bespeak the presence of great
Thy servants, mighty in Chaldean lore, [Belus,
At thy command their language would unfold :
But here all knowledge fails ; no human skill
Hath power to fathom, nor art, save that of Belus,
To reveal their meaning, or make known
Their mystic import.

Belshazzar.

Accurst deceivers, base impostors,
Avoid my sight, or swift and signal vengeance
Shall overtake ye !

Nitocris.

Mighty Belshazzar, let not thy soul be troubled ;
Among the subject tribes of Judah
That own thy sway, thou shalt not vainly seek
The power to solve this fearful mystery.
The Hebrew Daniel is by Heaven endow'd,
And ev'n the page of dark futurity
Before his sight lies open.

Belshazzar.

Bid him approach me !
Art thou the Prophet of the captive Hebrews,
To whom, 'tis said, the knowledge of man's destiny
Is given ? Behold yon fiery omen
Thus on my sight intruding :
Declare its mystic language, and honours such
As kings alone have power to offer
Shall now await thee.
With wealth and station thou shalt be rewarded,
And ev'n thy wildest dreams of greatness shall
Be far exceeded.

Daniel.

Thy gifts be to thyself, O King ?
At His command who ruleth heaven and earth:
I come. The great Jehovah, whom I worship,
He bids me speak. Him, bold and impious man,
Thou hast reviled. The vessels of
His holy temple thou hast dared profane,
And God, eternal and omnipotent, the King
Of kings, defied. Hear him pronounce thy doom.
Thy days, proud man, are number'd,
Thy kingdom hastens to its end ;
Thou art weighed in the balance, and Heaven's
Eternal majesty by me declares thee wanting :
Thy power is departed—thy destiny fulfil'd !

Belshazzar.

I scorn thy empty menace, and I mock
Thy false predictions. Our city's strength
Derides the vaunted power of Cyrus :
Her gates of brass, her lofty towers,
Her massy walls, defy th' assaults
Of Persia's countless host.
Long as Euphrates rolls his mighty flood,
Belshazzar king of Babylon shall reign !

No. 24.

(The March of the Persian army is heard.)

Babylonish Soldier.

O King Belshazzar, the foe is at thy gates,
Cyrus and his host come like a mighty stream !

Another Soldier.

O gracious Sovereign, great Babylon is fall'n !
Euphrates hath his bed forsaken,
And Persia's conquering host thy palace hath Encompassed !

Chorus of Persian Soldiers.

Shout aloud ! the conflict is ended ;
Haughty Babylon, bend to the yoke !
The power thou hast dared to provoke,
On thy head hath in thunder descended.

Semi-Chorus.

Hark, the ghosts of our slaughter'd warriors :
“ Persians, avenge us, avenge thy valiant sons ! ”
“ Vengeance, vengeance ! ” their spirits cry ;
Vengeance shall our gleaming swords reply.

Chorus of Jews and Persians.

Shout aloud ! the conflict is ended ;
Haughty Babylon, bend to the yoke !
The power thou hast dared to provoke,
On thy head hath in thunder descended.

No. 25.—RECITATIVE. Cyrus.

Almighty God of Israel, the glory and the victory are thine ! For man, thy creature man, without Thee is nothing : Thy arm was here !

No. 26.—SONG.

O what is man, by all his pomp attended,
The pride of birth, the boast of princely might,
The victor's laurel, and the monarch's height ?
Thy mandate given, at once the dream is ended.
All gracious Power, thy aid alone imploring,
To Thee I bend, thy just decrees adoring :
Great source of light divine,
O bend my will to thine !

No. 27.—QUARTETT.

Strike the harp ! for the Lord in his might hath descended ;
O Judah, be glad, thy mourning is ended ;
Rejoice, ye redeemed, exulting bring
Thanksgiving and praise to God our King !

No. 28.—CHORUS OF JEWS.

Lord, thy arm hath been uplifted,
Israel triumphs o'er her foes :
By thy mighty power defended,
By thy ceaseless love attended,
Zion shall in peace repose.
Lord, reveal thy awful glory
As when Egypt felt thy rod ;
Soon the heathen shall adore thee,
And their idols fall before thee,—
Thou, and thou alone, art God !

No. 29.—SONG. Daniel.

Boundless visions, glories bright, before me are fleeting ! Ages of joy and peace again await the chosen nation.

The Lord hath redeemed his people, and glorified himself in Israel.

Thy walls, O Zion, once more shall we see, and with rejoicing thy courts revisit.

Almighty Father, what mortal praise, what songs of angels, can speak thy power, or who can celebrate all thy love ?

No. 30.—RECITATIVE. Israelitish Woman.

The ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs of gladness. Everlasting joy shall be upon their heads, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

SONG.

O Zion, how bright the hopes that attend thee !
The wilderness now shall its verdure resume,
The desert rejoicing with roses shall bloom ;
The Lord is thy Shepherd,—he shall defend thee.

No. 31.—CHORUS.

Give thanks unto God, O house of Judah, and talk of all his wonderful works.

O praise Him, all ye people, and declare his salvation.

Show forth all his loving-kindness unto Israel,
for He is gracious, He alone is mighty.

The Lord hath been thy refuge, O Zion ! He hath been thy salvation and thy sure defence.

Hosanna ! Jehovah reigneth in majesty, in power and glory, and He shall reign for evermore.

He alone is mighty—He alone is holy !
